About the Opportunity

InfinityPATH is looking for a full-time Specialist Histopathologist based in Brisbane, QLD & Melbourne, VIC to lead in shaping the future of our histopathology services.

Reporting directly to the Director, you will provide not only high-quality laboratory services but also strategic leadership in advancing diagnostic pathology practices. As a leader in the lab, you will have the autonomy to influence clinical and scientific approaches while mentoring the team and contributing to the organisation's vision.

More specifically, your responsibilities include:

- Leading the diagnostic process by handling complex histopathology cases with clinical correlation and advisory services
- Setting the standard for quality assurance programmes and ensuring scientific rigour across all diagnostic processes
- Serving as a key advisor and consultant to medical professionals, offering expert opinions on challenging cases
- Driving innovation by contributing to and implementing cancer reporting protocols and other advanced diagnostic tools
- Collaborating with the lab and medical teams to shape operational strategies and ensure the highest standards of service delivery
- Creating and delivering educational content to support ongoing professional development in the industry
- Representing the organisation in professional networks, conferences, and research activities to reinforce InfinityPATH's leadership in the field

A key advantage of this role is the dedicated Quality Management Team, which handles administrative tasks. This support allows you to focus on delivering high-quality diagnostic services, clinical work, and research. You will also work in a culturally diverse environment that promotes gender equality and inclusivity. We foster a team culture of collaboration supported by reliable technical support from a skilled IT team.
